

Animal Welfare Fortnightly 2015

"Z.O.O.'s Educator Network" ZEN

Every year for over 50 years Animal Welfare Fortnight has been celebrated in India in the last two weeks of January. The Animal Welfare Board of India AWBI organizes this popular animal's event. Zoo Outreach Organization ZOO and our sponsor Universities Federation for Animal Welfare UFAW help educators of all kinds use the event to create awareness by providing complimentary educational material. Much of our material is oriented toward both conservation and welfare. If you order this material, you must not simply hand it out but conduct a programme using the materials inside to create an enjoyable and meaningful experience for your participants. You can highlight the animal welfare components of the materials. All wildlife conservation, if properly practiced, benefits wild animals in the long term.

Requirements for complimentary material:

Complimentary material comes with some requirements from you. You should observe our methods that make the educational event more meaningful. Our methods include the following:

1. Printed material should be used in an active programme of games, learning and making commitments to animals, domestic, captive or wild in a meaningful way.
2. The theme of the material we provide should be conveyed to your audience and you should conduct the games and activities.
3. As programme organizers you need to use the materials in a very conscious way in order to get the attention of your audience of youngsters and insure that they learn something new and also, change their ways of thinking and behaviour toward all animals.
